COWLEY HAPPENINGS

D. R. Melvor, of Stettler, was a business visitor for a few days during the week.

The recent heavy snow is fast disappearing, at a rate that will enable farmers to soon be at work on the fields.

Mrs. Mary Pazinoff and daughter Walga and son Gaston, of Nelson, who, returning from a two months visit with relatives and friends in the Calgary district, stopped over here to spend a week with relatives and old acquaintances.

On Friday night last the Young People's Society held their monthly meeting in the Masonic hall. The main issue was voting in favor of holding a sports day here on Victoria Day, May 24th. Plans are now being made toward that end, and to make the day as colorful as possible.

A quiet wedding was solemnized in St. Joseph's church here on Saturday morning, April 14th, when Miss Pearl Jurowski, of Beaver Mines, exchanged marriage vows with Mr. Louis Barbiero, of Burnis. Rev. Father Bartley performed the ceremony. Miss Rose Eddy was bridesmaid, while the groom was supported by Mr. John Nazur.

Mrs. Tina, pioneer of Alberta and wife of Venerable Archdeacon J. W. Tina, of Calgary, passed away at the family residence on Sunday last, aged 78. Born in England, daughter of Rev. J. G. Wood, noted lecturer and journalist, she came to Canada in 1890.

ROBERT E. DONKIN PASSES

The death of Robert Edward (Ed.) Donkin, of the village of Frank, occurred in the Blairmore hospital on Wednesday afternoon, April 18th.

The late Ed. Donkin came to the Crows' Nest Pass in the laying of the steel in 1899, later working out of Cranbrook as a conductor. In 1908 he became yardmaster at Frank serving in that capacity until the time of his death.

He served overseas in the First Great War from 1916 to 1919, enlisting as a lieutenant in the 122nd Battalion, transferring to the 54th Battalion and later to a railway corps.

In 1908 he married Gertrude Orpha Simmons, who predeceased him in February of 1919 while he was overseas leaving no children. His marriage to Isabel Maclean Murdoch took place on April 28th, 1920.

Through the years he was keenly interested in all public and sports activities, and had served in various official capacities, being the reeve of the village of Frank at the time of his death.

Deceased was born at Bamforth, Northumberland, England, on January 10th, 1879. At an early age he came to Canada with his parents and sisters, settling in Winnipeg, Manitoba.

He leaves to mourn: his wife, Isabel Maclean Murdoch Donkin; one daughter, Mary Elizabeth (Mrs. A. S. Hovan) and one son, Robert Edward Charles (Bobby); also three sisters, Mrs. J. R. C. Young (Grace) of Brandon, Manitoba; Mrs. J. Cottley (Flora) of Winnipeg, Man.; and Mrs. A. Naracott (Clara) also of Winnipeg. His parents predeceased him a number of years ago.

The funeral services will be held on Sunday, April 22nd, at 12.30 noon, from the Crows' Nest Funeral Parlors to the St. Luke's Anglican church, Blairmore, with interment in the Masonic plot in the Hillcrest cemetery.

ALLOW AMMUNITION TO PROTECT CROPS

With the advent of spring, many thousands of farmers and farmers' sons across Canada will be getting out the "22" rifle in the seasonal hunt for animals and birds likely to damage the crops.

Farmers may purchase small arms ammunition to protect their crops or their livestock against predatory animals or birds. First, they are requested to take the registration certificate for their firearms to the nearest range office. Then, they will receive a permit for the purchase of the ammunition and this permit must be presented to the retailer from whom the purchase is made.

THE WAR NEARS CALGARY

Whew! The war is sure getting close to home. Just how close was indicated during a news broadcast over a Calgary radio station on Sunday afternoon. "Latest despatches from the Western Front," declared the announcer, "state that American forces have been forced to relinquish several bridgeheads, and have been pushed back to the west bank of the Elbow River." The GI's are probably gathering their forces for defensive action in the bull barn at Victoria Park, while flanking movements are executed along 6th St. E. and behind the Holy Cross hospital—Calgary Albertan.

JOBS FOR UNIVERSITY UNDERGRADUATES

About 4,000 temporary summer jobs will be available this year for university undergraduate students in science and engineering courses, it was announced by Arthur MacNamara, director of National Selective Service.

Through the wartime bureau of technical personnel and employment and selective service offices, these positions will be available to students who are anxious to gain experience and aid in the war effort during the vacation period. The jobs have been located through a questionnaire sent to employers across Canada.

About 5,000 jobs have already been reported, and another 1,000 are expected by the end of the spring university term. Jobs will be listed at each university, where a faculty member will be designated to act as liaison officer with selective service. Local employment offices will accept applications and arrange for work permits.

Labor department officials point out that engineering and science students can play an important part in helping solve the manpower shortage which is current in war plants and essential civilian industries throughout the country, and at the same time secure practical experience towards their profession.

PLANES FLY ON COTTON

Our fighting planes fly on cotton. Cotton fabric is used on aircraft wings instead of metal because it holds together better when pierced by bullets—metal is apt to crumple when its tension is relaxed by bullet holes.

That's only one of thousands of war uses for cotton and other textiles. It is one reason back of the need for clothing conservation. This spring more and more women are making old clothes into new. The money saved is going into war savings. The material conserved is going to war. Until victory is won, remake old clothes into new and wear them out.

Canada's Food Supply

SHORTLY AFTER CANADA ENTERED the war, the people were warned that they would be called upon to make many sacrifices, and that these sacrifices would involve a general lowering of the standard of living here. Since that time, labour shortages, the disappearance from the market of many luxury items, and numerous other wartime scarcities have touched almost every Canadian home, and there are few families today who have not in some way been affected by these restrictions. While spending power has been drastically curtailed in many ways, Canada's buying power was three billion dollars higher last year than it was in 1938. Since many of the normal channels of spending are now closed, statistics show that Canadians have been steadily increasing that percentage of their income which they spend on food.

People Now More Adequately Fed

Statistics for the year ending in November, 1944, showed that in that period wholesale grocers had sold twelve per cent. more groceries and ten per cent. more fruits and vegetables than during the preceding year. Meat production in 1944 was the highest in our history, and in the 1943-44 crop year Canadian flour mills produced thirteen and a half million barrels of flour, which was also an unprecedented figure. In the case of both wheat and flour, much is exported, but there has been a steady increase in the domestic demand for both these products. Nutritionalists look with favour on this rise in food consumption in Canada, for it means that the people are being more adequately fed than they were in the pre-war years, and this will, undoubtedly, favourably affect the standard of national health.

On Combined Food Board

There has been some discussion lately concerning the world food situation, and Canada's part in feeding the less fortunately situated people of other countries. Canada has, all through the war, sent large shipments of food to the United Kingdom and to any other country where war conditions made this possible. Canadian farmers have done a magnificent task of not only maintaining but of increasing production in spite of serious handicaps in the way of labour shortages and scarcity of equipment. The people as a whole have cheerfully accepted such food rationing as has been necessary, and are fully aware that rationing and shortages of some supplies will in all probability continue long after hostilities cease. Canada, the United Kingdom and the United States have worked together on the Combined Food Board, the object of which has been to ensure as fair a food distribution as possible among all the Allied Nations. As more shipping space becomes available, and relief organizations extend their activities in liberated countries, food distribution will be carried out on an increasing scale, and Canada will no doubt play an important part in that set up and maintain a high standard of nutrition throughout the world.

HOW YOU CAN GET QUICK RELIEF FROM SORE, PAINFUL PILES

Most people seem to think the only way to get relief from their sore, painful piles is by local treatment. Local treatment may give temporary relief from the itching, but you can't really see why such treatment will not cure you. The only way to cure the cause of your piles is to use Hem-Roid. Hem-Roid is a powerful, yet gentle, laxative that has been used for over 40 years by thousands of pile sufferers. It is a small, highly concentrated tablet, easy and pleasant to use. This powerful, yet gentle, laxative directs its curative action to the rectum, where it is the congestion of the rectum that causes the piles. Hem-Roid removes this congestion, and the piles disappear. Hem-Roid movements, quickly relieve itching, irritation and soreness, and stimulate better blood circulation in the lower bowel. Thirty-Seven Blind People Work As Rivet Sorters in British Factory. A Southampton work manager told a Labor exchange official that he needed rivet sorters. After a fortnight he returned and asked for more and now has 37 blind people at work. "It is we who have been blind," is his comment.—London Daily Sketch.

Price Control And Rationing Information

Q—A few years ago I used to be able to buy small tins of meat sandwich spread. They were so handy because they were just the right size for one meal, and my husband could take one along in his lunch box. Is there any possibility of meat spread being packed in these little tins again soon?

A—Yes, since the first of the year manufacturers have been permitted to pack meat and poultry sandwich spreads in the small three-ounce containers you speak of. But in order to give packers sufficient time to build up their stocks, sale of these products to the trade was not permitted until April 1st. If your grocer has any of these three-ounce containers of meat and poultry sandwich spread on order, he should be receiving stock shortly.

Q—I am a returned man and wish to start in business. Do I have to secure a license before I can do this?

A—Yes. You should make application to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board for a license.

Q—Are stores allowed to deliver less than $1 worth of merchandise?

A—After October 30, 1944, each retailer was allowed to establish his own value limitations on deliveries and time limits on returns, refunds and exchanges.

Q—Now that shot guns and rifles do not need to be registered, is it necessary to have a permit to purchase ammunition?

A—Yes, permits are to be obtained in the same manner as formerly. No ammunition must be given out without an essentially certificate approved by the local ration board.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumer's News" to the Blue Book in which you keep track of your selling prices, mentioning the name of this paper to the nearest Wartime Prices and Trade Board office in your province.

Bit Of History

When Garibaldi Said Italy Would Stand By Britain.

In April, 1854, Garibaldi, commanding the ship Commonwealth, put in to Tyne-side to take in coal.

When it was known that the Commonwealth had anchored at Tyne-mouth, a public subscription was organized to present her commander with a sword and a telescope, and a deputation was appointed to make the presentation on board the vessel.

Writing on April 12 to Mr. Joseph Cowen, chairman of the deputation, Garibaldi used these words: "England is a great and powerful nation, independent of auxiliary aid, foremost in human progress, enemy to despotism, the only safe refuge of the exile, the friend of the oppressed; but if ever England, your native country, should be circumstanced as to require the help of an ally, cursed be that Italian who did not step forward with me in her defence."—Leeds Yorkshire Post.

THE IGLOO—

"The Igloo" came up each day with the rations. To the men who took part in the Eskimo Scheme recently completed in Northern Saskatchewan, it was as welcome as food, and being neither in edible nor in liquid form that might have been surprising.

"The Igloo" was a news sheet, written from base headquarters in Prince Albert and sent out each day to the ration men.

Its purpose was chiefly informative, to keep the "Eskimos" in the know on world events, on activities around the base headquarters and on what their current "Eskimo" was doing to keep himself occupied in their absence.

Lt. M. O. D. Logan, St. John, N.B., was editor-in-chief of the publication.

Two other CWACs employed on the expedition were Pte. N. M. Cobbe, Limerick, Sask., and Pte. Doris Atwood, Calgary. Meantime many a link between the map out on scheme and the base, "The Igloo" was definitely on each day to the ration men.

It arrived. To the CWACs it was their contribution to the "morale department". Unable to take an active part in the Eskimo scheme itself, they enjoyed the morale-boosting effect of their daily news sheet gave them.

MARRIED—

A pretty wedding ceremony was enacted in the church of St. Martin's in the Field, in London recently, when Pte. Ruby Viola Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Alice Littlewood, Foam Lake, Sask., became the bride of Cpl. Perry Bernard Vilkens, son of Bert Vilkens, Beechy, Sask. Pte. Doris Atkinson, Manitou, Man., and Sgt. Robert Gray, Toronto were attendants. The bride was given in marriage by her cousin Sgt. Miller Howe, Foam Lake. All the bridal party were service units.

CRACK-SHOOTING CWACs—

Rifle shooting popularity has reached an all-time high with members of the C.W.A.C. Overseas and in Canada. Crack marksmen at No. 42 Company, C.W.A.C. in London recently shot their way to victory over a rifle team representing the Ordnance Corps. While the men were still practicing for a vindicating "trigger triumph", the girls went on to vanquish a picked team from the Signal Corps. One of the highest scorers was L-Cpl. Ida Skinner, Winnipeg. Very active rifle clubs have been formed in Montreal and Ottawa with many of the members qualifying for the First Class Badge of the Dominion Marksmen Competition.

Major Mary Morrison, Delta, Alta., O.C. No. 12 Administrative Unit, Ottawa, is the crack shot of that team. Other high scorers are L-Cpl. Bunsie Parker, Minnedosa, Man., Sgt. Gertrude Wurtz, Kelvington, Sask.; Pte. Lucy Cassels, Don Crest, Sask.; Pte. Doris Colwell, Langdon, Alta.; Pte. June White, Isle Pierre, Sask.

ENLISTS—

Several Western girls enlisted in the C.W.A.C. in Regina recently. Included among them were Jessie Hall, Coquett; Janet Dore, Fiddling; Agnes Neas, Elderley; Lillian Crocker, Lethbridge, Alta.; Mary Mackenzie, Calgary; Mable Anderson, Bagley; Helen Narkabaski Dufos; Ida Evans, Spruce Home; Deloris Neas, Elderley; Edna Reid, Spruce Home; Ellen Vaccher, Flin Flon.

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

GIVES FASTER RELIEF FROM SPRAINS, STRAINS, ACNES AND SORENESS!

WHY YOU CANNOT GET CANNED SALMON

Perhaps it would be more correct to say "why you cannot get all the canned salmon you want". Here's the real inside story of what has recently shown a delivery of over seven million (7 million) cases of salmon and herring to Britain and of the fighting fronts in the three years

Like the farmers of Canada the fishermen set their teeth, buckled into the job, improvised ways and means, and when the final count was made recently it showed a delivery of over seven million (7 million) cases of salmon and herring to Britain and of the fighting fronts in the three years compensating this item as well as material in it.

It was back in 1941 when the food situation in Great Britain became desperate due largely to "the battle of the Atlantic" that our Canadian Government asked, on behalf of the British Ministry of Food, for all the canned salmon that could be spared and also for a great canned herring production.

The industry did its best, then came the requisitioning, right after Pearl Harbour, of all the large salmon and herring fishing boats on the Pacific Coast by the Royal Canadian Navy as an urgent defence measure. You can readily see how this would cripple the industry which on the one hand was being urged to catch and can fish and on the other was having its fishing boats taken away.

One thing is sure, the Canadian fishermen by his efforts has helped materially to feed the soldiers and the people of Britain and in that way contributed to winning the war.

But won't you be glad when you can go into the grocery store and find order Sockeye, Coho or Pink Salmon—and get it? The prospect makes my mouth water because I surely love my salmon!

since 1942—a truly magnificent record.

That, dear reader, explains why you cannot get all the canned salmon you want because during the same three years only 450,000 cases in all were released in Canada, which is far short of the usual quantity for one year because, before the war we used about 600,000 cases yearly.

since 1942—a truly magnificent record.

That, dear reader, explains why you cannot get all the canned salmon you want because during the same three years only 450,000 cases in all were released in Canada, which is far short of the usual quantity for one year because, before the war we used about 600,000 cases yearly.

One thing is sure, the Canadian fishermen by his efforts has helped materially to feed the soldiers and the people of Britain and in that way contributed to winning the war.

But won't you be glad when you can go into the grocery store and find order Sockeye, Coho or Pink Salmon—and get it? The prospect makes my mouth water because I surely love my salmon!

Wider Coverage For World News Being Planned

TORONTO.—Plans to widen coverage of Canadian and world news were outlined by Senator W. A. Buchanan of the Lethbridge Herald in his presidential address to the annual meeting of The Canadian Press.

Broader and more considered stories of events and situations in Canada are planned to meet domestic needs. Senator Buchanan told the newspaper publishers and executives who are members of the news-gathering co-operative.

Senator Buchanan said the CP's successful effort to cover the war broad and at home outlined another problem, that of covering the peace and the world's rehabilitation.

"To this task and that of reporting the Canadians in the Pacific war, we have already committed ourselves," he said.

After paying tribute to CP war correspondents, Senator Buchanan said: "By God's grace we have lost but one of our men—Sam Robertson, who was lost at sea in 1941."

While CP war correspondents were reporting the war for those at home, the co-operative also had done a job of morale-building by keeping Canadian servicemen informed, no matter where they might be.

Since May, 1942, CAP had published in London a weekly newspaper, The Canadian Press News, for free distribution to Canadian servicemen overseas. A service also had been provided to The Canadian Press newspaper in Italy and on the western front, and daily bulletins were provided for servicemen at isolated spots in Canada, Labrador and Newfoundland.

The guarantee of objective, impartial news given by The Canadian Press and The Associated Press, co-operative, non-profit news services of Canada and the United States, is the "single greatest ethical contribution made by this hemisphere to the world at large," Robert McLean of Philadelphia said in an address prepared for a CP annual meeting luncheon. Mr. McLean, president of AP and publisher of the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin, lauded the "basic principle" of the two news services.

Discussing the speed of present-day transmission of news, Mr. McLean said this means "that the people of a nation have as the basis for their decisions a valid and trustworthy knowledge of events and that the same knowledge is available with minor variations to all."

"Many difficulties exist in nations beset with internal conflicts," he added. "But surely if democratic principles are to grow throughout the world they will thrive best where people exercise their right to know and base their judgments and decisions on an accurate knowledge of events."

Telling the world what Canada, the new leader among the smaller nations, is thinking and doing is the new task of The Canadian Press, J. A. McNeill, general manager, said in his report to the news co-operative's annual meeting.

The wartime task was a preparation for the new demand on the CP as a national news service when interest in Canada increased and both The Associated Press and Reuters, the British agency, turned to CP for aid in covering the Dominion.

END OF TIRPITZ

Nazis Blow Up Battleship Sunk Last Fall By R.A.F.

LONDON.—The Norwegian information office has received word that the Nazis have sent demolition experts to Tromsø Fjord to destroy the super battleship Tirpitz beyond hope of salvage.

The reports say the Nazis have planted 120 tons of explosives in the bulk of the battleship. The Tirpitz was sunk last fall by the Royal Air Force.

HOLLAND NEEDS FOOD

TORONTO.—Peter Stuenkel, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation correspondent in Europe, said that on the day northern Holland is completely liberated, 12,000 tons of food will be moved into the famine area. He said in many districts in Holland the staple food was raw daffodil and tulip bulbs.

ISSUING NEW STAMP

WASHINGTON.—A United States postage stamp will be issued to commemorate the San Francisco world security conference, Postmaster-General Walker said. The first-day sale of the stamp will be conducted at San Francisco April 26, the day the conference opens.

BRITISH MINISTER ON FOOD MISSION—President Roosevelt conferred in Washington with the British ambassador and two members of the British food mission which is surveying the overall problem of feeding and supplying liberated Europe. Here are Col. J. J. Llewellyn, left, British minister of production, and Hon. Oliver Lyttelton, minister of food.

Canada Facing Her Most Acute Labor Shortage

OTTAWA.—Munitions Minister Howe said in the commons that Canada's war production machine now was operating at its peak, constant with available manpower, and was likely to continue at that pace at least until the end of the war in Europe.

In his annual review, Mr. Howe said production for the fiscal year 1944-45 was estimated at $2,206,000,000, a reduction of 12 per cent. from the previous year. Despite a reduction from 1944 in war plant employment, Canada faced her most acute labor shortage in the next six months.

Mr. Howe repeated an earlier prediction of a 35 per cent. reduction in war output when fighting ends in Europe, but said the war with Japan would demand a large percentage of Canada's war production and capacity not required for war purposes would be converted to civilian production.

Forecasts were difficult at the present stage of the European war, but it was likely that 1945 would see reduction in the output of aircraft, small arms and mechanical transport, with increases in gun ammunition and railway equipment.

Total commitments by the department to the end of last year were $13,900,000,000, of which $10,340,000,000 was for production contracts. The 1944-45 value of war production was $2,206,000,000 compared with $2,499,000,000 the previous year.

Increasing amounts of Canada's output were going to her Allies. Last year 72 per cent. was for delivery to armed forces of the Allies and this year it would be stepped up to 80 per cent.

"The latest figures at hand show a total of 675,000 men and women employed in the manufacture of war equipment as of Jan. 1, 1945," Mr. Howe said. "There has been a substantial decrease since Jan. 1, 1944, but, despite this, there is every indication that our greatest labor shortage will occur in the next six months."

NO SANCTUARY

Elire Will Not Be Allowed To Harbor War Criminals

LONDON.—Prime Minister Churchill implied that he would see to it that no war criminals found sanctuary in neutral Elire.

The question arose in the house of commons when Dr. James Little, a Presbyterian minister from Belfast, asked the prime minister whether he would "take steps to make sure that no war criminals find sanctuary in any country embraced within the British Commonwealth of Nations."

The written reply from Mr. Churchill was: "Yes, sir."

Elire has evaded giving the Allies flat assurances that Axis war criminals would be banned.

The Elire government, however, has served notice that anyone who jeopardized the country's neutrality was undesirable would not be admitted.

LEAVING CANADA

No Extension Of Term Is Planned By Governor-General

OTTAWA.—A brief announcement from Government House said the Earl of Athlone does not propose to extend his term as governor-general of Canada for any length of time and expects to leave the Dominion during the late summer.

The announcement follows:

"The normal term of office of the Earl of Athlone as governor-general of Canada is due to expire on June 15. His Excellency does not propose to extend his term for any length of time and expects to leave Canada during the late summer."

The Earl of Athlone was appointed governor-general in 1940.

General Eisenhower Receives Letter From Group Of Heidelberg Women

WITH THE U.S. 7TH ARMY.—A letter written by a group of Heidelberg women to Gen. Eisenhower, condemning the Nazis and urging the Allied supreme commander to "give us a peace based on wisdom and you will receive our admiration" was found on the Bismarck statue in Heidelberg.

This letter said that Gen. Eisenhower's vow to destroy German militarism and the Nazi party was not enough.

"We want the resurrection of common sense and decency," it said.

"This is the deepest meaning of all existence and for us it is the assurance of lasting peace."

IN GRAVEST HOUR

German Army Is Again Under Hitler's Personal Command

LONDON.—Adolf Hitler again has taken full personal command of the army in Germany's gravest hour, reports from the western front said.

Documents captured by the Allies showed that all German attacks, withdrawals or other operational movements had to be approved by Hitler in advance. BBC correspondent Chester Willmot reported from Germany.

EGYPTIAN KING ON BRITISH CRUISER—King Farouk of Egypt is shown on the bridge of the British escort carrier H.M.S. Hunter during his visit to the ship in the Mediterranean recently. With the Royal visitor is Vice-Admiral William G. Tennant, commander in chief of the eastern Mediterranean.

UNBUSTABLE BRITON—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, the man who knew all the time this would be the way things would turn out, climbs a heap of debris to inspect a blown up bridge at Wesel, on the east side of the Rhine. Wesel was taken by the first British commando brigade in the opening phase of the present all-out offensive. Mr. Churchill was on hand to see what he called the "big heave" get underway.

Hitler's Terror Weapon Would Hamper Allies

HAMELIN, Germany.—Hitler's newest weapon, the underground organization of "werewolves" has terrorized some sections of the German civilian population, but thus far at least has been a flop as effective guerrilla opposition to the Allied armies.

A check of the various armies showed that in all of the vast territory overrun by Allied forces there has been almost no sabotage of military effort or assassination of Allied soldiers.

That there will be no formal peace every German, officer and civilian alike, agrees. This means that the Allied armies, besides crushing every particle of enemy resistance, must overrun every section of Europe held by the Germans.

The Nazis are trying to capitalize on this situation by attempting to throw Germany into a state of anarchy in which there would be no civilian administration and virtually no communications. It would take the Allies many years to deal with this chaos Hitler is creating.

Creating the werewolves is one of the terror weapons by which the Nazis hope to keep any German civilian from taking any position to help administer the country under Allied control.

This would mean that Allied forces would be forced to build and maintain public utilities, install communications and feed 80,000,000 people.

The alternative is to have 80,000,000 starving people, with the resulting riots, on Allied hands.

Under this chaos and confusion the Nazi party leaders could safely go underground to plan a long-range political campaign to sabotage Allied efforts to bring order to Germany.

The population of the world is estimated to be double what it was in 1800.

PLAN WORLD COURT

Jurists Working On Idea To Be Presented To Security Conference

WASHINGTON.—Jurists from 38 United Nations set to work on the court structure which many international lawyers contend must evolve into a main peace-keeping agency if international organization is to work. But as they began their task the delegates undertook no such grandiose assignment as setting up immediately a world judiciary of that power and responsibility.

The job now is to draw up mechanics for a world court, to be integrated with the international organization planned at last year's Dumbarton Oaks conference and to handle disputes now justifiable under existing international law.

Their recommendations are to be submitted to the United Nations world security conference opening in San Francisco April 25 to set up the organization planned at Dumbarton Oaks.

A primary decision to be reached here is whether a world court of new form shall be created or the existing world court adopted into the new set-up with necessary modifications. Preliminary opinion apparently leans to taking over the present court almost intact.

AIRSTRIPE ON CRETE

Has Been Established In The Eastern Part By British

ROME.—Allied authorities revealed that the British have established an airstrip on eastern Crete while several thousand Germans hold strong defence positions on the western end.

The Germans fell back to the western part of the Mediterranean island when Athens and Salonika fell to the Allies. They have engaged in only occasional forays into British territory.

The Germans took over Crete in 1941 in the first major airborne invasion in history.

Returned Men Need Time To Consider Plans

REGINA.—"In my opinion, any man who has spent five years overseas should have at least six months rest, before deciding what he wants to do. It would take him that long or longer to retrain his nervous system to adjust himself to civilian life. In any less time a man is not in the proper frame of mind to make important decisions regarding his return to civil life," said Maj. J. C. Knowles, D.A.A.G., Military District 12, in an address to members of the Army and Navy Veterans Association here.

Maj. Knowles said he had advocated that returned men in hospital and receiving out-patient treatment, be given pay and allowances until such time as they were in a position to provide for themselves or were receiving a substantial pension. This is now being done, he said. Veterans of this and of the First Great War were the biggest problem this country had to face. He referred in particular to the veteran who joined in 1939 and then was found too old to be sent overseas. Most of these men were transferred to the veterans guard. They are struggling through the mud in all types of weather, guarding German prisoners. When they receive their discharge, a good number of them would be 50 years of age and would receive a few hundred dollars for their service, not because they wouldn't go overseas but because they couldn't.

"It is up to us all, to all veterans associations, to see that these men are properly provided for after discharge," he said.

"There is altogether too strong a tendency to treat men returning from overseas as 'castles'. Men don't want this. They want to know that you are glad to see them back. They want an opportunity to enter into the business which they want to enter into. They don't want to be pampered. They don't want to be told what to do. Common sense and practical help is all that they need or want until they can re-establish themselves into civil life," he said.

He told the meeting that Canada could be proud of the men who had fought for it, for the "mercenary marine and for civilians who had contributed so greatly to the war effort. He spoke of the pride which filled him as he watched ship after ship being filled with cargo, produced by the civilians of Canada. Cargo which was no mean contribution to the war effort.

A SACRED CITY

Name Given To Leningrad By Mrs. Winston Churchill

LONDON.—Mrs. Winston Churchill told citizens of Leningrad that she regarded their city as "sacred" because of the lives sacrificed during its siege, the Moscow radio reported.

Mrs. Churchill spoke briefly during a visit to the city and said she and her secretary, Miss Mabel Johnson, hoped to visit Leningrad hospitals.

"Long live Leningrad," she concluded. "Long live friendship between our two countries."

FOR JAPAN RAIDS

New British Bomber Is In Same Class As Superfortress

LONDON.—A British bomber of the same class as the American Superfortress is being built for R.A.F. attacks on Japan, the London Daily Mail said.

The newspaper's air correspondent said the first news of the plane was given by Sir Roy Dobson, managing director of A. V. Roe Ltd., makers of the Lancasters which now are dropping 11-ton bombs on Germany.

NOT WANTED

STOCKHOLM.—All German civilians who have fled to Sweden in recent days will be sent back to their country immediately, the Swedish minister of justice announced.

TIME EXTENDED

OTTAWA.—Time for payment of income tax has been extended from April 30 to Aug. 31, Acting Revenue Minister MacKinnon announced in the commons. He tabled an order-in-council, making the change. Similar action also was taken last year.

STOCKHOLM.—Seven German planes landed in southern Sweden and the crew of one frankly admitted they were deserters, despatches from Malmö said.

THE WORLD WE WANT

"Whatever sort of world you want, it's up to you to build it," writes a soldier. Our soldiers are fighting to save us from the wrong kind of world. It's up to us to see that they—and we—get the right kind.

But what sort of world do we want? Why is it up to us to build it? Why can't we leave all that to the statesmen after the war?

Most of us agree that we want a free world. The victory of our armies and plans of our statesmen can preserve our independence as a nation. But whether we are a free nation—made up of free men and women—is still and always will be up to us as individuals.

Free men are those who don't have to be told to do everything. They shoulder the responsibilities of life and nation of their own free will. But individuals easily grow tired of carrying responsibility. They are tempted to give over to any and all authorities who offer to lift responsibility from them. They are willing to swap liberty for comfort and they thus soon find themselves regimented to the right.

Even those who love liberty can get too easily absorbed in using it to their own ends. Preoccupied with private interests, they grow blind to the scheming of subversive minorities in industry and government. And they are quite surprised when they wake up and find themselves herded to the left.

The price of freedom is indeed eternal vigilance—plus eternal responsibility. But if we each keep our eye on what's right and what's wrong, we will not be misled right or left. And if we each seek out and take the personal responsibility which—and which alone—can make democracy workable, we will build up our free world.

There is little chance to do this through selfish groups and self-interested people. Only those can do it who care enough to put national and world interests ahead of their own. A free world must be based on spiritual and not on materialistic values. But when this spirit of unselfishness becomes more important to us than our politics, and becomes the mainspring of our economics and the centre of our family life, then we can build the world we want—a God-inspired world of freedom.

PROTECT OUR FORESTS

The forest rangers of Alberta from the provincial forests on the east slope of the Rocky Mountains and from the northern Alberta forest district have recently returned to their districts from forest ranger schools held in Calgary and Westlock. There they discussed all phases of forestry, including timber operations, big game, trappings and, most important of all, the protection of the forest that makes these and life in the province possible.

The season of fire hazard will soon be with us. The rangers are determined to do their part to save our forests. They cannot do this alone, but must have the hearty co-operation of all good citizens of Alberta. Ninety per cent of our forest fires are caused by man, most of which are directly attributable to settlers' spring fires. The immediate result is the destruction of wild life and sometimes human life (two fire fighters lost their lives last year), property and green growth, followed by the loss to the people of the province of merchantable timber, as well as the lowering of water tables, spring floods and soil erosion.

We have heard and read much about the floods in older parts of the North American continent. I can happen here. We have had some experience in our own province, last year in the Pembina Valley flood.

WARS CANADIAN FARMERS MAY LOSE EXPORT MARKET

If Canada is to safeguard its interests in the British market after the war, the need to meet Britain's present bacon requirements cannot be over emphasized, according to John Burns, president of Burns & Co. Limited. While Canadian exports of bacon and beef reached a war-time high during 1944, market prices have since declined and if the present trend in bacon exports to Britain continues it will lead inevitably to a reduction in the present weekly 1-ounce ration of the British consumer, Mr. Burns states.

With Hon. J. G. Gardiner, minister of agriculture, as authority for the statement that while there will be limited demand for grain Canada is assured of a ready export market for pork at the present market levels until at least the end of 1946, Mr. Burns states that Canada has so far failed to take advantage of this market. He warns that unless Canadian producers are prepared to raise a suitable type of hog year in and year out and in numbers that will ensure the shipment of adequate quantities of bacon to Britain weekly throughout the year, there is little hope of Canada retaining that market.

SAN FRANCISCO

History unfolds like a great drama, for long periods slowly developing and now moving at bewildering speed with triumphs, with tragic turns and contrasts. While one act in Europe draws to a close, the stage is already being set for the next scene at San Francisco. Is it to be another tragedy? Or the foundations of a world at peace?

In millions of people hopes are high, longings are deep. But memories haunt us of the last peace lost and this time already there are many disquieting signs. The forthcoming conference has already focussed many grievances, mistrusts and differences, both between and within nations—of the uninvited who clamor to be there and the invited who would rather take no responsibility, of politicians committed to directly opposing policies.

We, too, readily think of ourselves as only spectators in this great drama. Reading the morning paper gives the same thrill as watching the last rounds of a hockey match with our side winning. But we are actors, too.

Generals may map a campaign, but the war is won by the millions of ordinary soldiers. So statesmen make out-war plans, but the peace has to be lived by millions of ordinary citizens. The real job of peace-making has to go on here in Canada—between labor and management, race and race, neighbor and neighbor, husband and wife, and children. For the multiplication of these private wars build up to war as we have known it today.

Dr. Frank Buchman, founder of the Oxford Group, who 25 years ago saw that the last peace settlements left untouched the real causes of war, said in a world broadcast at the beginning of this war:

"The world must declare a world moratorium on hate and fear, personally and nationally. The new peace pact might have as its preamble that all contracting parties, 'all nations, live on a basis of no hate, no fear, no greed; and the necessary prelude to this happier pact is that all of us begin that new quality of living now and do not postpone it for some future armistice. Then we shall be true

CARE OF FORESTS IMPORTANT

During recent weeks pupils at many Kent County school in Ontario learnt a good deal about the conservation of national resources through the control of forest fires in talks given by R. V. Whelan of the department of lands and forests. What he said is of interest to all Canadians, so we quote some of it here.

In his talk to the students he said that, inasmuch as the forests of Ontario are owned by the people, what happens to the forests must be the concern of the people of western Ontario as much as to the people who live in the forested areas.

In order to impress the young people with the necessity for being careful with fire when in or around forests, Mr. Whelan briefly pointed out a number of forest values, such as recreation, regulation of climate, preservation of wild life, building of soil fertility, prevention of erosion, mother of rivers and controller of run-off.

The uses for wood, he said, are numbered in thousands, wood being used for fuel, by mines and railroads, for constructing homes, making paper and furniture, drugs, silk, varnish, oils, turpentine, yeast, linoleum, explosives, hospital dressings and bandages, plastics of all kinds from fountain pens to phonograph records, motion picture film and even skins for sausages and hot dogs. Wood poles carry power and telephone lines to our homes and very fine honey is made by bees who extract the nectar from basswood flowers.

In order to emphasize the loss that is sustained by the careless act of an individual with fire in the forest, Mr. Whelan mentioned the cost of one of the many hundred fires which occurred last summer. Five million board feet of lumber were destroyed in that fire, in addition to sufficient pulpwood to have provided the local daily newspaper to last it for forty years.

What the loss of other values has been such as attraction for tourists, fish, fur, jobs for lumberjacks, farmers and others, besides destroying animals and birds, we all have known. Our forests are our "green gold," he concluded, and their preservation is essential.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT IS LAID TO REST

At Hyde Park, New York, on Sunday afternoon last, the remains of Franklin D. Roosevelt were committed to the earth of his native soil. Under a cloudless sky the body was lowered in the grave in the flower garden of his family estate. Watching were members of the family, dignitaries of government and groups of employees of the place and neighbors from the countryside. A detail of gray-clad cadets from the military academy at West Point fired a volley of three farewell salutes, and a bugler sounded "The Last Post." Soldiers, sailors and marines, who held an American flag over the casket, folded it and handed it to Mrs. Roosevelt. A few steps to the rear, now President Truman stood with lowered head. The Canadian wreath was produced by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

patriots; then there will be law and order in the world, within our hearts and our nation; then we shall be able to say, 'Behold how these nations love one another.'

FREEDOM TO GIVE

I feared the gifts my Father lavished, The love He kindled 'gainst my will, The joys with which my soul He ravished, So full my cup to fill.

For long years I preferred to live In independent poverty, Slow to receive, grudging to give To gratify—but me.

My meagre satisfaction lay In hopes (so slim) if my success; For the false grace my heart would pray Of being 'right, sinless.

Denying Christ's love, I denied it To millions for whom long He yearned; My mind said 'Yes,' my heart belied it, Since for myself it burned.

Gone is a life of cold and bleakness, I glimpse a new world's breadth and length; Each fear a doorway, every weakness A means to prove God's strength.

Comes from the Cross in my heart planted The freedom all most deeply crave, Freedom to give. That gift is granted Which of Himself Christ gave.

THE MIRACLE OF WARTIME PRODUCTION IN ALBERTA

OVER 41 MILLION TONS OF

COAL

1939 TO 1945

If the Coal mined in Alberta since 1939 was to be loaded in freight cars and assembled into one solid train, that train would contain approximately 913,900 cars and stretch over a distance nearly equal to the miles between Vancouver and Moscow. This amazing production achievement has been accomplished in spite of the acute labor and material shortages which the industry has had to face during the war years. This record production of Forty-One Million Tons demonstrates, once again, the initiative and resourcefulness which has long been associated with Alberta and its people. It is with renewed hope and confidence that we can look to that postwar period when the progressive Coal Industry of this Province will again play a major rehabilitation role in developing the wide and varied by-products of coal from Alberta's vast resources.

Free copies of a booklet containing the entire series of informative details on Alberta's Wartime Production may be obtained at the conclusion of the schedule. Please send in your name to Calgary Mining & Malting Co. Ltd., Calgary.

Young Canadians Enthuse Over New Sports Coaching Idea

"Sports College" Has Strong Membership in West

(By Lyall Dawkins)

Encouraging to young Canadians with ideas is the story of "Sports College". The brain child of Lloyd Percival, once known as "Canada's Most Versatile Athlete", and a young man who has plugged the dream of a physical fitness and athletic direction program for 14 years, "Sports College", sponsored by the National Council of the Y.M.C.A., and brought to Canadian boys from coast to coast without cost to its members has made an amazing growth since it began eight months ago. Already there are over 60,000 boys from Victoria, B.C., to the Atlantic coast enrolled as members. During the recent contest that had as its winner, Keith Cruickshank of Calgary, Alta., over 34,000 entries were received. Another westerner, Bob Leadingham of Indian Head, Sask., was runner-up.

"Sports College" is a project that embraces a radio broadcast every Saturday afternoon over a network of 36 Canadian stations; there are local College clubs and booklets and bulletins are issued on how to play various games and train for all the popular Canadian track and field events.

A membership identification card and handsome sweater sent are sent free when a boy makes application for his, "Sports College", registration card.

Members come, as was said, from all parts of the Dominion, although the western provinces have so far contributed the greatest number, per capita. "Boys in cities and boys on farms have one thing in common," Head Coach Percival says: "They all want to be competent performers in, one or more branches of sport and they realize perhaps more than their elders dream, the vital importance to themselves as individuals and to their country as a national entity, of physical fitness."

All coaching on the air and in the printed matter sent to members stresses the Head Coach's firm conviction that the first step in athletic achievement is perfect physical condition. This sound basis for his instructional talks has resulted not only in Coach Percival's definite success with College members, individually and in teams but in the whole hearted expressions of approval of leading athletic and boys' work organizations.

Approval has been forthcoming too from other countries whose representatives have approached the sponsor of "Sports College", with request to assist with the organization of similar youth athletic direction and physical fitness projects, in Russia, the United States and South America.

The Head Coach and the Y.M.C.A. feel that, given proper training and beginning it when the boys and girls of Canada are first taking an interest in organized play, will enable athletes from the Dominion to hold their own in international competitions of the future. The College is recognized by the Canadian National Fitness Council and recommended by it to all schools and church groups in a recently passed resolution.

Any individual boy or group of boys interested in knowing more about "Sports College", can secure full information by writing to "Sports College", P.O. Box 99, Toronto, Ont. There are no fees involved, so write today.

Survivors Rescued

After Being Drifted On The Sea For Thirty-Two Days

The last of 142 survivors of an American Liberty ship torpedoed in the Indian Ocean by an enemy submarine have landed at a West Australian port after being drifted 32 days.

They were rescued by a British aircraft carrier after they had just eaten their last provisions. The other survivors had been picked up previously by other searchers.

Nothing was known of the sinking for four days because the ship's wireless was dead. After the torpedoing late at night and in heavy seas, the survivors got away in four lifeboats and six rafts. Thirty-three were killed when the torpedo hit.

Five Australian flyers were killed in the search when their plane crashed. The search covered thousands of square miles and was carried out by units of the United States and British Navy and Allied merchant ships.

Love Finds A Way

Wife Got Around Naval Regulations In Meeting Her Husband

Love found a way to get around naval regulations at the C.N.R. station in Winnipeg when members of the crew of H.M.C.S. "Prince David", formerly of the Canadian National Fleet, arrived on leave.

It was a happy re-union for Petty Officer John Trevor when he was greeted by his wife, but the better half was just plain Mrs. John Trevor, instead of Sub-Lieutenant Trevor, which is her naval rank. Had she appeared at the station in uniform as a Sub-Lieutenant, she would not have been able to embrace her husband nor accord him the welcome she would want to give after 15 months separation due to his lower rank.

The former C.N. luxury liner played an important part in the invasion of France and has seen action in waters far distant from the English Channel where she participated in D-Day operations. The "Prince David" is now undergoing refitting.

Britain Makes Miniature Radio Parts For Use In Far East

Radio loudspeakers scarcely bigger than pocket watches are among parts of miniature sets specially made in Britain for the Far Eastern war.

Many of the parts have to be "tropicallyzed" to withstand the climatic effects of monsoons, jungles, and swamps. Some have been developed only after extensive tests in "artificial jungles" built in sealed rooms in United Kingdom radio factories.

The range of miniature components was specially designed to economize weight so that complete apparatus can be transported easily by air or on the backs of pack mules. The wire used in some of these components is so fine as to be almost invisible to the naked eye; it has to be examined through a microscope.

During his visit to Toronto to see the Stanley Cup play-offs, Keith Cruickshank, winner in the Y.M.C.A. "Sports College" contest, met members of the Maple Leaf team at one of their morning work-outs. Here he is pictured with a friend and fellow townman, Leaf net-minder Frank McCool, who learned to play hockey on the same neighborhood rinks from which Keith recently graduated to become a star performer on the "Calgary Stampede", top team in the junior league in that city.

Advice Is Good

Canada Should Be Topic For Many Young Canadian Authors

Young Canadian authors should write about Canada, Dorothy Duncan, winner of the Governor-General's 1944 literary award for creative non-fiction, said at Montreal.

The author of "Partner in Three Worlds", had the following advice to give to budding Canadian writers: "The last decade has seen an awakening of Canadian literature which has caused interest in other countries with the result that today the world is eager to hear about Canada through the medium of young Canadian authors."

About Numbers

Another Curious And Interesting Combination Has Been Discovered

The Toronto Telegram reports that one of its readers has discovered a curious number. It is 142,857. Multiply it by 2, 3, 4, 5 or 6 and no new digits will be found in the totals. When it is multiplied by 7 the result is 999,999 which is smack up against the million. From time to time persons who have the time and the inclination find curious and interesting combinations of numbers. In fact some have gone so far as to proclaim a pseudo-science which they call numerology.—Fort William Times-Journal. 2816

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY—

In The Moonlight

By REGINA WAGNER

McClure Newspaper Syndicate

"Myrtle in bed?" Papa asked cheerfully, kicking off his old house slippers. Mama nodded vaguely, her eyes shifting away from her husband. Papa didn't notice it. He was pulling the sheet up about his head in the special way he liked. "She oughta be in bed early the night before her wedding," he stated complacently. "Lucky girl marrying Sam! I tell you he's the best catch in town."

Mama, in front of the mirror, began to brush her short grayish hair. After each stroke, she paused, frightened eyes staring into the glass, and listened. She was afraid to tell Papa that she had left Myrtle on the porch for a minute—just a bare minute—and when she returned, Myrtle was not there. Mama was terrified. Myrtle might have gone off with that Ted Andrews whom Papa hated so. And on the night before her wedding to Sam Meuruff, too! Mama's eyes grew more and more frightened.

Papa called impatiently. "Ain't you ever coming to bed?"

Mama, this rebuked, pulled her shapless apron over her head and hurried through her other preparations. She went obediently to bed, but she was aware of every sound in the street below.

Where was Myrtle?

Mama thought suddenly of the beautiful white wedding dress hanging in Myrtle's room. Mama remembered how Myrtle had looked when the dress was done, at last, and put on. All white and soft and clinging, it was. Molded by Myrtle's own soft, slim shapeliness. Pretty Myrtle! Mama had drawn her breath quickly when she had seen Myrtle in that dress. And yet there had been something lacking. Nonsense, of course. Just Mama's silly notions. The dress was so beautiful. Like—like a ray of moonlight.

Mama stirred nervously. Where was Myrtle?

"If she stays away much longer, I will have to wake Papa and tell him," Mama moaned. Papa was sleeping peacefully now. And he did hate Ted Andrews so! Now, Sam! There was a boy! Still young—well, you couldn't call him old. What if he was fifteen years older than Myrtle? She was a baby; she needed a man with some sense to take care of her. Besides, look what Sam had, Papa said.

Mama raised herself on an elbow. A sound at last down there—an engine that wheezed and came to a sudden stop. That was Ted Andrews, all right. Mama found that she had been breathing hard—just as she did when she tried to run upstairs.

She relaxed. Well, it was all right now. Myrtle wouldn't have had Ted bring her back if he hadn't meant to do what her papa wanted her to. Everybody did as Papa wanted. Mama always had. For that matter, she wanted to see Myrtle well fixed.

Drive out ACES

himself. Riding around in that big car of Sam's instead of Ted's ramshackle old flivver, wearing the fine dress that Sam could give her. Of course Mama didn't hate Ted the way Papa did. That just showed, of course, that she wasn't as wise as he. The front door was being opened gently. Mama listened contentedly to the familiar little squeak. Then there was silence—complete silence. Myrtle was saying good-bye to Ted Andrews. Funny that Myrtle liked him so much. Guess she was too much like her mama. Not smart like Papa.

Mama strained her ears. Once she heard a loud creak, and once the stairs jumped. But that wasn't Myrtle. "Why doesn't Myrtle come that door and come upstairs?"

Mama slipped from the bed very very quietly and crept to the window. There was Ted's car, disreputable even in the beautiful white light of the moonbeams. And Ted was standing beside it. Or was that Ted? It was Ted and Myrtle—pressed close in each other's arms. Mama felt their emotion, knew the sadness of it. Myrtle saying good-bye to Ted in the moonlight. Tomorrow she would marry Sam Meuruff. That was right. Papa said so.

Mama watched them draw apart—so slowly, so reluctantly—and Mama saw what happened next. Saw Ted catch up Myrtle, swing her easily into the old car, jump in himself! Mama exclaimed with the surprise of it.

Papa was awake in an instant. "What's the matter?" he cried.

He saw Mama at the window, and in a trice he was beside her. The sight of the old car starting up in the street below told him at once. With an angry yell, he jumped for his clothes. Mama ran out of the room. Her bare feet pattered down the stairs.

"I'll get them!" Papa was shouting. "I'll bring them back! The young fools!"

The little rug at the foot of the stairs moved under Mama as she stepped upon it, and automatically she stooped to straighten it as she heard Papa start down.

"Move! Get out of my way!" Papa was yelling as he rounded the turn.

Papa would surely bring Myrtle back. Mama was as certain of it as she was that tomorrow would dawn. Mama moved then just in time to get out of Papa's way. And as she stepped aside, she gave the little rug a jerk—just enough to send Papa sprawling to the floor, shouting and cursing his back—just enough to be sure that he wouldn't be bringing Myrtle back tonight after all.

May Change Order

In Reference To Freezing Teachers On Their Job

A labor department spokesman said that it looks probable that the three-year-old order freezing teachers in their occupations will be lifted Sept. 1.

The spokesman said the proposal has been under consideration by the national selective service advisory council and the federal government has communicated with the provincial ministers of education, most of whom favored the suggestion.

"No final decision has been reached but it looks probable that the freeze will be lifted Sept. 1," he said.

The order, put into effect three years ago because of a shortage of teachers, prevents them from accepting any employment other than agriculture.

Have No Rank

Chaplains In Navy Equal To Men They Talk With

W. L. Clark, in the Windsor Star, says: Chaplains in the Navy have no rank and wear no rank badges. The padre is in naval uniforms and the cut of the clothes resembles the garb of a naval officer.

The idea of having no rank is that a naval chaplain always ranks equally with the man to whom he is talking. If the padre is with an admiral, then he ranks with an admiral; and, if the padre is with a rating, he ranks with the rating.

This plan of the Navy saves the men in the ranks the embarrassment that comes from talking to a commissioned officer. In the Air Force or the Army, it is sometimes necessary to have a non-commissioned officer act as an intermediary before a private can talk to God's representative. It may seem silly to be uninitiated, but some of the chaplains with commissioned rank are as good as a second lieutenant who has just put up his one pip.

Some day, perhaps, the Army and Air Force will follow the example of the Senior Service and have the chaplains rank with all, no matter whether it be the lowest or highest.

TUBERCULOSIS OF THE BOVINE TYPE AND UNDULANT FEVER

Tuberculosis of childhood, excepting the pulmonary type, is caused by contaminated milk. A careful survey of 365 tuberculous children in one United States city showed that 25 per cent. suffered from the bovine type. The source of infection in these cases was raw (unpasteurized) milk. Some years after the introduction of compulsory milk pasteurization in Toronto, a survey revealed that the only children in hospital suffering from tuberculosis of the bovine type were from outside the city.

Most favored body points for tuberculous germs from cow's milk are the lymph gland of the intestine and the neck and bones. Tuberculosis of bones and joints causes many crippling deformities.

A common disease in cattle is infectious abortion from germs called brucella. Goats, pigs and cows can be infected with these germs which rarely attack children but which cause undulant fever in adults.

Undulant fever contracted by drinking raw milk from diseased cows or through contact with infected animals or by handling infected meat. It also may be spread through cheese, butter and buttermilk. There are three strains of bacteria, one of pig origin the most virulent. When undulant fever causes death, this strain is generally to blame. Undulant fever derived from cow's milk is the mildest and death rarely occurs from this type.

However, cows sometimes are infected with a virulent strain that originated elsewhere and this strain has been found in cow's milk.

Shows Great Presence Of Mind When School Caught On Fire

Attention should be drawn to a young gentleman of whom the world may count on hearing more. Master William Thompson McClintock, a pupil at the preparatory school near Exeter where a fire, involving four fatalities, took place last month. Young McClintock, who was aged eleven and had been at the school just four days when the fire occurred, jumped from a roof on to some mattresses in his pyjamas. He then set off to call the fire brigade. No one told him to go (so he stated at the inquest on Monday), he just thought it would be a good idea. It was blowing a gale and snowing hard, but even in pyjamas he kept warm by running (vires acquiescit eundo). The first house he stopped at had no telephone, so he went on to the next building he saw. That turned out to be the fire station, so his work was done—London Spectator.

How The Food Parcels Sent Weekly Saved Many Lives

That the prisoner of war food parcels despatched overseas weekly by the Canadian Red Cross "unquestionably saved thousands of lives" is the expressed opinion of a recently repatriated war correspondent who was taken prisoner in Italy in 1942.

Larry Allen, famous Associated Press writer and U.S. Correspondent British Mediterranean Fleet, in a letter to the Canadian Red Cross states unequivocally that it was the Red Cross food parcels "that meant the difference between life and death while I was imprisoned in Italy."

Expressing his gratitude after his return home on the Swedish liner "Gripsholm", Mr. Allen writes that "Canadian parcels came to myself, British, American and Canadian captives months before any American ones reached us, and since the Italian diet was extremely scanty and of poor quality, I think you know why I and others said nightly: 'Thank God for the Canadian Cross'."

DON'T TALK

We raised a bright-eyed baby
To a six-foot husky man.
He sailed the seas till someone talked;
Now he's prisoner in Japan.

The moral to my story—
Please try to understand:
Our enemy with big ears
Is forever close at hand.

So, if you know a movement
Of men or ships or gun,
Just keep it dark—remember
To keep a silent tongue.

—W. Howe, Wash., DC

There is someone over yonder
Fighting to keep you free.
There is someone over yonder
Fighting patiently.

No regular hours for rest or sleep,
Ploughing through mud and rivers deep,

Fighting, dying, wounded sore;
Brother, sister, here's the score:
Let's do our bit while he's away—
Put all our cash in Bonds today.

● You have reason for just pride if you have done all you could do, on the home front, to support the gallant effort of our men in active service.

If you have denied yourself pleasures and comforts to buy Victory Bonds . . . you, too, have played a part in helping your country's war effort.

You have worked and saved and lent your savings to your country. Without this help from you . . . and from millions of her citizens, your country could not have maintained the prominent place she now occupies among the freedom-loving nations.

Canada has the use of your savings to help to win victory. (You will have this money to use for your own needs later.)

Perhaps you wish you could have done more. Well, you will be asked to do more. Men who have come back will tell you that there is lots to do yet. Canadians are on active service, on the fighting fronts. More money is needed to support their effort.

You are asked to keep on working and saving and you will be asked to put more savings into Victory Bonds. They are the best investment any Canadian can make; an investment that every Canadian should make.
